Phony Auto Registrations Face Probe

State-wide investigation of "phony" automobile registrations was predicted today as a result of a disclosure in Quincy that out of 6000 excise tax bills sent out there, more than 1000 have been returned marked "no such address" or "no such person."

Belief was expressed by City Collector R. D. Messenger of Quincy that many of the "phonies" represent efforts of automobile owners in other parts of Greater Boston to avoid paying high local compulsory insurance rates.

The rate for 1939 in Boston is from $53.25 for light and medium weight cars to $57 for heavy cars. In Quincy the rate is only $35.90 to $39.45.

Chelsea's rate is $62.10 to $66.40; Everett, $46.60 to 49.85; Woburn, $41.25 to $44.10; Winthrop, $46.60 to $49.85; Wilmington $43.10 to $46.10.

EVASION EXCISE TAX

In addition to the substantial "savings" thus possible to automobile owners in these towns who falsely register their cars from Quincy, the car owners could also evade payment of excise taxes.

The new state law, in effect Saturday, however, will enable local authorities to cope with the situation, City Collector Messenger, in Quincy, said.

This new law provides that

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Oct. 12—Search for the sex-fiend who attacked and brutally beat to death sweet-faced, 17-year-old Mary Imelda Coyle, near New Rochelle, turned to New England today, as police broadcast an eight-state alarm for an "old, brown roadster" believed to have been driven by the slayer.

Discovery of a blood-stained auto jack in a patch of underbrush in New Rochelle upset a police theory that a stone-cutter's hammer might have been the murder weapon.

But investigators remained convinced that their best hope of obtaining a quick key to the identity of the killer lay in the victim's native city of Barre, Vt., a center of New England's granite-quarrying industry.

Baffled in their efforts to trace any New York acquaintanceship which might have led deeply religious young Miss Coyle to her terror-death, investigators hoped they could bring some clue to light by an intensive check-up of her Vermont home-town background.

At the same time, they began a painstaking search of police records in an effort to trace movements of itinerant quarry workers and stonecutters ever held in connection with sex-crimes or similar acts of violence.

LIVED ON HOUSEBOAT

Mary Coyle had been living recently with her mother and sisters aboard a houseboat, moored at New Rochelle, on a shallow backwater of Long Island Sound.

She was born in Barre, Vt., however, spent her girlhood there and was a graduate of Holy Ghost Academy in Granville, a Barre suburb.

Her huddled, bleeding body was found in a vacant lot behind a row of business buildings here.

Medical examination showed the girl had been attacked and had then been beaten to death with a weapon police could not immediately identify.

HAMMER IS SOUGHT

The victim's skull had been crushed by blows which left holes the size of a half-dollar at the base of the brain and in her forehead.

Fitting into the crime picture, Continued on Page 8, Column 3

MURDER SCENE—Police investigators scan weed patch in rear of Larchmont Theater where the battered body of convent-bred Mary Coyle was found. Clue to slaying came from Mrs. Mortimer Hersh of New Rochelle, who told police of hearing screams early in the morning.

1 Killed, 2 Hurt In Andover Crash

One man was killed and one little girl and another man painfully injured in a head-on collision between an automobile and a specially chartered school bus today on the North Andover turnpike, at Atkins hill, two miles east of Wilson's Corner.

The bus, with 40 boys and girls aboard, was en route from Lawrence to Lynn to the Lawrence-Lynn English football game.

All of the boys and girls aboard the bus were students from Lawrence high school.

The girl who was injured is Irene Groele, 14, Shawshen road, Lawrence.

Killed in the crash was Samuel B. Baltzer, 56, North Main street, Middleton, driver of the automobile that smashed head-on into the bus.

Hurt along with the Groele girl was Amie Cayer, 45, Crosby street, Lawrence, the bus driver.

He and the girl both were taken to Lawrence General Hospital. There their injuries, while painful, were found to be not serious. They were allowed to go home after treatment.

A near panic ensued aboard the bus following the crash. Girl students screamed, and boys shouted. Several were cut by flying glass, and all were shaken up. Baltzer was dead when his body was extricated from the wreckage of his car, which was virtually demolished. Those aboard the bus stated that Baltzer's car swerved but hit the bus head-on.

Chief of Police Alfred H. McKee declared that the section of the road where the accident occurred was "particularly dangerous" and that he had asked Commissioner of Public Works William A. Callahan to have it widened from a two-lane to a four-lane road.

Holiday Blocks Marriage

Holiday and War Scare Delay Girl's Wedding Day

There's an old adage about love indulging in some hearty guffaws at locksmiths, but today, in the face of a national holiday and the European war scare, it couldn't even evoke a weak snicker.

Victim of love's ad and plight were Miss Jean Walker, 21, of Marion, Va., and Bradley Kregar of Richmond, Va. They had set today for their wedding day in Boston.

Miss Walker had been touring Europe for the past four months, but had planned her return so as to be back just in time for her marriage.

Came the international crisis. Europe was on the brink of war and frantic tourists stormed ship offices to return to the safety of their own country. Among them was Miss Jean Walker.

So many were the demands that sailings were delayed and Miss Walker's ship, the Excambion, departed from Marseille, France, a day late.

The bridegroom-to-be, Mr. Kregar, unfamiliar with Massachusetts law, had neglected to obtain a five-day waiver. Today when the Excambion arrived, he learned that the courts and the City Hall were closed.

Kregar said he and Miss Walker would spend the remainder of the day, if necessary, driving over New Hampshire roads looking for a justice of the peace who could marry them.

Miss Walker's mother, Mrs. D. M. St. Claire, her sister Betty and Kregar's sister Mary were at the pier to greet her when the ship docked.

10 Held in 'Tar, Feather' Attack

MARIETTA, O., Oct. 12 (AP).—Wesley Hasley, 35, and nine relatives and friends were held in jail today for grand jury investigation in connection with the tar and feathering of Evangelist Joseph A. Dixon, 42, about an hour after he married Hasley's daughter, Opal, 22.

All 10 pleaded innocent to conspiracy-to-kill charges filed by Dixon, Nazarene preacher from Madison, S. D.

MRS. HELEN YOUNG
Beaten by Youth

Kidnap Bungle Victim Is Ill

Mr. Helen Young, 27, a Commonwealth avenue housekeeper, collapsed at her Back Bay home today after accompanying detectives on a futile search for her mysterious would-be kidnappers.

The young matron was attacked by a burly young man as she stepped from her automobile in front of the residence of her employer, Mrs. Lucille Taylor Clarke, Back Bay socialite widow.

She obtained a good description of her attacker as she fought him. She is suffering from a possible fracture of a rib, multiple bruises and shock.

Police advance the theory that the attack on Mrs. Young was a case of mistaken identity and that her employer was the intended victim.

Mrs. Clarke is out of town at present.

Ends Her Career as Night Club Songbird:

Sally Clark Sets Earlier Bridal

Dan Cupid's urgent whisperings—not frowns of Sally Clark's wealthy and socially prominent young husband-to-be—caused Sally to give up her budding career as a night club entertainer.

Sally's mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark of Nahant and Back Bay, made that clear today.

And just to prove she knew what she was talking about, Mrs. Clark gave out the surprise information that Sally and her fiancé, George Xavier McLanahan of New York, would be married on December 3, instead of January 8, as originally planned.

"The story that George insisted Sally should give up her public singing is perfect nonsense," Mrs. Clark told the Boston Evening American.

SALLY PUZZLED

"Personally, I hope Sally will find she doesn't care to go on with her night club work after her marriage."

"But whatever she decides will be entirely agreeable to George. It's silly for anybody to say he 'put his foot down' on Sally's career. He isn't like that, at all."

"How such a story got started in New York, I can't imagine. People have been calling me up about it, all day."

"Finally I telephoned to Sally in New York. She said she was just as amazed as I. She hadn't given out any statement and no reporters had been to see her or had asked her about her giving up her singing."

"I see no reason for there being any secret about the fact that Sally and George will be married December 3 instead of January 8."

"They just decided they didn't want to wait until the later date. They're in love, you know."

Mrs. Clark said the wedding would be in Emmanuel Church here. John Roosevelt, Sally's brother-in-law, will attend with his bride last June, the former Anne Lindsey Clark.

HOLLYWOOD REPORT

The report that Sally's career as a night club singer was to be cut short, at request of her fiancé, young McLanahan, came from Hollywood.

A night club proprietor there announced he had received a telephone call from Sally saying she would have to cancel her intended West Coast appearances.

Couple Steal Away for Bridal

Stealing a march on their many Cambridge friends who expected them to wed today in St. Peter's Church, Observatory Hill, a young Cambridge couple stole away to New York and were married yesterday.

The marriage was revealed by a telegram from the bride to her mother.

The couple, Mary B. Fennell of Fenno street, and Thomas S. Kelly of Walden street, left for New York by automobile.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Fennell, well-known residents of the Observatory Hill section. She is a graduate of St. Paul's school, Cambridge High and Latin school and the New Business College. Until her marriage she was employed in the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Kelly's brother of John "Mugsy" Kelly, former Latin School and Boston College baseball twirler.

Thousands View Holiday Parades

With thousands lining the streets, Boston and Chelsea celebrated Columbus Day today with two big parades following exercises, equally thronged, on Boston Common.

The parade in Boston was through the streets of the North End, from Knights of Columbus headquarters at Washington and Elm streets, up Hanover street through Scollay square, across Green street, Staniford street, down Mermaid street through Haymarket square, through Cross street, Hanover street, Charter street, Salem street and Prince street, to the North End Prado.

In Chelsea, hundreds of cheering marchers and Knights of Columbus in full regalia paraded to Columbus circle, Chelsea square, where a six-foot marble statue of Columbus, atop a 14-foot granite shaft, was dedicated.

The monument is the gift of the Italian colony in Chelsea.

Throughout Greater Boston, local celebrations were held. Knights of Columbus councils throughout the state marked the occasion with memorial masses for deceased members of the order.

Schools and financial institutions, as well as many business houses, throughout Greater Boston were closed for the holiday.

But Boston took on a "Christmas rush" aspect during the afternoon, when downtown stores opened at 1 p. m. and thousands of shoppers

Night Events For Holiday

The following events take place tonight in celebration of Columbus Day:

7:30 p. m.—Demonstration of rescue work and band concert by Boston fire department at Bunker Hill Monument.

8:00 p. m.—Band concert at North End Park.

jammed Washington street and adjoining thoroughfares.

Mayor Tobin was one of the principal speakers and presided over the municipal exercises on the Common.

There will be a fireworks display and band concert at 8 p. m. in North End park.

John J. Spillane, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, spoke over Station WNAC in the afternoon, and will speak again from Worcester at 6:45. Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody will broadcast at 7:30 p. m. from Station WJZ.

Take Politics Out of Relief

Citizens, before you vote, demand these specific promises from all candidates for Congress:

"Being a candidate for United States senator (or representative in Congress), I hereby pledge that I will work and vote for legislation to remove public expenditure from partisan control and from politics, and I specifically promise to support at the next session of Congress a bill making it a crime, punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, to distribute relief money, or pump-priming money, or agricultural benefit money, or social security money, with a view to political advantage, or for any political purpose.

"I promise to support legislation prohibiting all who handle such money, or who are employed in connection therewith, from using their positions in a partisan or political way.

"I promise to support legislation placing the entire personnel in charge of all money spending, under strict civil service regulations.

"I promise to support legislation creating a non-partisan board to supervise distribution of public expenditure in relief, social security or other activities."

Assail Relief In Politics

Use of federal relief funds for "political expediency" was unanimously denounced by such Massachusetts candidates for Congress as could be reached by the Boston Evening American today.

In plainer words, they spoke out against the buying up of a section of the electorate.

A definite demand for the placing of all relief in the hands of a non-partisan commission has taken definite shape in Washington.

Many feel that lavish dishing out of public money by the present administration constitutes an attempt to bribe the people and build up a class permanently on the dole.

At the sessions of the Sheppard committee, it was disclosed that policies and relief were intimately allied.

CANDIDATES' VIEWS

Influential leaders in Washington, many of them Democrats, have suggested that the voters exact a pledge to end this situation from their congressional candidates before the November elections.

"The opinions of the Massachusetts members of and aspirants for Congress follow:

U. S. Representative Allen T. Treadway, of Stockbridge:

"I am wholeheartedly opposed to use of public money for political expediency. Any measure which will eliminate such vicious practice I warmly endorse."

U. S. Representative Charles R. Mason (R.) of Springfield:

"The time has come for an administrative check on political activities with public money."

WILL SIGN PLEDGE

J. Walton Tuttle, Republican candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives, Framingham:

"I certainly will sign the pledge: Use of relief money for political purposes is one of the first steps to overthrowing democracy. It is a deliberate attempt to block the will of the American voter by using a financial couge on his back to swing him into position for a political platform.

"I promise to fight for and support such legislation."

Martin J. Kelly, Democratic candidate for U. S. House of Representatives, Boston:

"Long ago we should have struck at the insidious progress made by politicians nurturing personal ambitions through flagrant use of public funds."

"It must be stopped immediately!"

"The pledge is timely. I promise to lend full support, with one exception: 'pump priming.' I believe the latter was non-political."

ASSAILS FRAUD

John D. Badfish, Democratic candidate for U. S. House of Representatives, Barnstable:

"I am for any administrative move which will wipe out fraudulent use of taxpayers' money for political control. I think the paragraph in the pledge about civil service regulation is most important."

"In my opinion there should be blanket legislation to curb men or women who have public funds at their finger tips, whether they have political designs or not."

Edward A. Ryan, Democratic candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives, Worcester:

"I endorse the pledge 100 per cent. It is a necessary and essential step in a dangerous political movement in this country."

Congress Will Act Quickly

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

Special to Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Congress will respond quickly to the wishes of the American people whenever those wishes are declared with unmistakable force.

After years of subservience to the political propagandists who demanded and obtained drastic legislation for the enforcement of prohibition, Congress reversed itself almost overnight, when the people had made it clear they were through with prohibition and its accompanying evils.

The movement now under way to require all candidates for Senate and House to pledge themselves in advance to work for and support a statute to place the entire relief administration structure of the federal government in the hands of a non-partisan board, is regarded here as the most effective way to insure the enactment of the necessary legislation early next year.

Senator Bailey, (D.) of North Carolina, said today he favored a commission of seven members. He added:

"We ought to have a board of at least seven members representative of all groups, no more than three being members of the prevailing party."

A majority of those Senators and House members who have been questioned up to this time, are generally agreed in principle, that relief should be administered in a non-partisan and non-political manner.

Matters involving the size of the board, however, are details, on which various Senators are now at work in the preparation of proposed legislation to be offered at the next session.

Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia and Cardinal O'Connell of Boston were scheduled to preside over the general sessions of the American hierarchy which will continue three days.

Seek an Early End to Graves Perjury Trial

The state and defense marshalled forces today for a speedy finish to the perjury trial of Frederick H. Graves. It was expected a decision would be reached by Judge Harold P. Williams early next week.

Attorney Lafayette Chamberlin planned to confer with his client today on the defense Graves will present next Monday on the charge he lied in testimony given before Judge Frederick W. Fosdick.

That testimony was presented in the city's suit against former Mayor James M. Curley and Dr. Joseph Santosuosso, who were ordered to repay $60,000 to the city in connection with the settlement of the General Equipment Corporation damage suit.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle believes three more days will be necessary for presentation of the state's case against Graves.

William Montgomery and Louis Senn, members of the New York firm of Ernest W. Brown, Inc., who originally hired Graves to attempt an adjustment, will take the stand tomorrow, according to Assistant District Attorney Doyle.

Both men are expected to testify following the questioning of Stuart Rand, well known attorney, who obtained a statement from Graves in St. Louis, which ultimately led to the city's suit against Curley.

News Briefs

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Oct. 12 (AP)—The cabinet resigned to permit President Felix Paiva a free hand in organizing his regime today. The national congress elected Paiva constitutional president yesterday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (INS)—Showing concern over wide-spread opposition to the administration's farm program, Department of Agriculture officials have ordered a census of farm belts to determine the depth of support for the cost-of-production plan, it was disclosed today.

TATE, Ga., Oct. 12 (AP)—Colonel Sam Tate, 78, chairman of the board of the Georgia Marble Company, died late yesterday at his pink marble mansion in Long Swamp Valley. Since 1905 he had held control of vast stone quarrying and manufacturing interests.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The treasury reported today that grants to states and other cash costs of social security increased to $82,868,127 in the first quarter of the fiscal year. In the similar period last year, the cost was $57,599,168.

New York, over a nation-wide and Canadian hookup.

Judge John E. Swift, supreme director of the Knights of Columbus, was a speaker at the exercises on Boston Common.

Judge Swift drew a close parallel between present times and those of Columbus, when, he pointed out, European Christianity was battling desperately against the threatened deluge of Mohammedanism.

RELIGION IN PERIL

"History is repeating itself," he declared. "Today Spain again finds herself at grips with forces that threaten the leveling of the symbols which have stood for culture and education through the centuries."

"The forces of Christianity and civilization are again in mortal combat with those hosts which would destroy religion and abolish God from the realm, overthrow orderly government, abandon morality and substitute their own organization based on the philosophy of hate and confiscation for the commandments of God."

Fourteen Italian-American organizations and Chelsea organizations of the Knights of Columbus participated in the parade in Chelsea.

Annual memorial services of North End Council, Knights of Columbus, were held in St. Mary's Church, Endicott street, North End. The Rev. Thomas A. Fay, chaplain of North End Council, was celebrant of the mass.

Among those in line of march in the Boston North End parade were the crack bands of St. Leonard's Church, St. Stephen's Church, the Sacred Heart Church and Fishery Post, American Legion, also units from the Crusader Club, Ansonia Council, K. of C., and North End Post of the Legion. The Boston fire department will present a floodlighted demonstration of rescue work at 8 p. m. at Bunker Hill Monument in Charlestown, preceded by a firemen's band concert at 7:30.

Uphold Retrial In Dall Suit

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—New York's court of appeals has cleared the way for retrial of a slander suit brought by Curtis B. Dall, New York city, former son-in-law of President Roosevelt, Time Magazine.

The state's highest tribunal has denied the magazine's motion for reargument of the case, in which the court last July 7 upheld a lower court ruling for a new trial to determine the amount of damages to be awarded.

The suit arose from a story in the magazine, comparing American and foreign treatment of news stories. Dall charged that as a fictitious example, the magazine story "represents him as having committed suicide in the White House in the presence of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and his former wife, now Mrs. John Boettiger.

Weigh Lawlor Divorce Plea

Judge Arthur E. Beane today considered divorce action brought against John K. Lawlor of Winchester by Mrs. Mary Bailey Lawlor, described in testimony in Middlesex probate court as a lady with "gorgeous legs."

The plaintiff took the stand in concluding testimony to deny her husband's charges that she petted with other men under dim lights and that she became intoxicated at wild parties at her home.

Mrs. Lawlor, writer of children's stories, did admit she once had kissed a Mr. H. twice but that it was in front of her husband and that it didn't mean a thing.

She declared she was known as "snooty" among her friends because she wouldn't take more than one drink.

On the contrary, she testified that it was her husband who did the family drinking, calling on Police Chief J. Sumner Viles of Weston to testify that he had twice seen Lawlor under the influence of liquor.

The chief added that he had never seen Mrs. Lawlor drink and that the "wild parties" described throughout the testimony were all news to him.

Check N.E. Clues On Girl Slaying

as it was pieced together by police, was the theory that some man she knew and did not fear turned the Coyle girl into the "old brown roadster" supposed to have been driven by the slayer.

The auto was described by Mrs. Mortimer Hersh of New Rochelle. She said screams from a young woman in such a car awoke her and her husband early yesterday morning.

First thought of the Hersh was that a petting party had developed into a quarrel between sweethearts.

Hersh shouted to the occupants of the brown roadster, asking them to be quiet.

Then a note of terror and pain in the girl's cries alarmed Mrs. Hersh.

"Are you being hurt, down there?" she asked.

"Yes, terribly. Call police," a feminine voice answered.

Mrs. Hersh's husband hastily dressed and ran out of the house toward the parked car.

DEATH CAR FLEES

But the machine roared away, just before he reached it. He was unable to read the registration number, but believed it was preceded by a "V," indicating a Westchester registration.

Police were certain today that an auto must have been used by the Coyle girl's slayer.

They were also sure it would have been virtually impossible for a stranger to persuade the victim to enter his auto, either for a lift in the direction she was going or for an adventurous flirtation.

A devout church-goer, deeply religious by training and by natural disposition, Mary Coyle had no boy friends and few social contacts, members of her family and her one or two lifelong friends said.

Mary was on her way to church to attend a novena, when she was last seen alive.

Police believed today she must have been intercepted by someone she knew, someone she supposed she could trust.

Acting on that theory, they first organized a thorough checkup of the victim's acquaintances in New Rochelle, then, up against a blank wall, they turned their attention to her Barre, Vt., background.

An eight-state alarm was broadcast today for the "old brown roadster."

When the girl victim's body was found, her hat, coat and handbag were missing.

In her hand were clutched a few strands of short, reddish brown hair. Investigators believe this might have been torn from the head of her slayer.

It appeared the murder had been where excise taxes are not paid, local collectors may refer the delinquents' motor vehicle registrations to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles for revocation.

Thus the "smart guys" who have registered their cars falsely now face having their licenses revoked. If, on the other hand, they come in seeking to pay up their excise taxes, they still have some tail explaining to do, as false statements in registering a car constitute a state offense.

Most of the "phonies" in Quincy are believed to be cars owned by Boston residents. The situation, however, it is understood, does not exist in Quincy alone.

A state-wide checkup will be made, it is understood, of registrations in such even lower-rate towns as Marshfield, where the rate is only $17.10 to $20.05; Adams, $17.10 to $20.05; Concord, $25.45 to $27.25; New Braintree, $17.10 to $20.05; Wellesley, $25.45 to $27.25; Topfield, $17.10 to $20.05, and similar localities.

In Quincy many of the "phonies" were found to be vacant lots, empty stores, cemeteries and swamps.

Catholic Leader Aids Rail Men

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Monsignor John A. Ryan, nationally known Catholic leader, testified for railroad labor today in opposition to the 15 per cent wage reduction asked by the nation's railroads.

"It would be very harmful at this time," Monsignor Ryan told the emergency fact-finding board which is attempting to avert a strike by nearly 1,000,000 workers against the reduction.

Medfield Boy Wins Hector, Both Happy

By HOMELESS HECTOR

Hey, Fellers . . . It's happened . . . Yep, I've been adopted . . . Yes sircce . . . Homeless Hector of the Hurricane now has a home . . . And a pal!

C'mon over while I tell ya all about it!

First, let me thank all you swell fellers . . . Yeh, and the hundreds of real girls, too, who opened their hearts and came to the front and fought the fight for my battle to exist . . . And, Kids, I sure thank every one of you right from the very bottom of my canine heart.

I studied out each letter . . . I played no favorites . . . I weighed every proposition . . . and I thought about it all for a long time . . . 'Cause don't forget, Kiddos, there was a life at stake . . . Mine.

HIS FATE SEALED

I was my own judge and jury . . . I alone brought in the verdict . . . And now my fate is sealed!

I feel that I've made the right decision . . . and sincerely regret that I'm just one little pooch . . . and can't be with all you reglar fellers . . . But, I feel that I know all of you as pals . . . folks who'll understand . . . people who think not only of themselves . . . But, who also consider the right of fair play . . . and the pursuit of happiness to even the lowliest mongrel.

And now . . . I'd like you to take a peek at the letter that opened the door to my future . . . Let's go!

Dear Dog Editor:

Just a line to let you know I sure am happy to write you, hoping I may have a chance to win that little homeless pup, Hector, I am nine and a half years old and in the 5th grade.

I have done many deeds for dumb animals. One was just two months ago, one night late I was awoken by a dog barking under my window.

I called mother, and she and I went down stairs and opened the door. We called the dog in, and she was hopping on 3 legs. We think she was hit by an auto. We gave her some chicken broth, and put a blanket behind the stove and kept her until morning, and dad found her owner who thanked him very much.

I would love to own Hector, I would be a kind master to him, and take him to my camp in the summer. So won't you please help me own Hector?

If I don't get him please see some good person does!

Thanking you, I remain,
Jackie Morgan,
Medfield, Mass.

P. S. My sister has a kitty and is proud of him. I sure would be just as proud of Hector if I could win him.

And, Fellers, I kinda read 'tween the lines on that one . . . and I imagined seeing a real guy . . . a straight forward gent . . . a true example of young America.

TRIP TO MEDFIELD

So . . . I hiked off to Medfield . . . way out in the country . . . to get a quick look-see . . . and here's what I found:

A robust, rellicking, red-faced, real kid opens the front door and beams . . . He looks on in amazement . . . I kinda catch a smile breaking through that wide-open face . . . He knows what's happened . . . Yep, he realizes he's the guy . . . He quivers . . . A sorta chill runs up his spine . . . He rushes forward and gently lifts me up to that manly little face . . . I feel the warmth . . . and comfort from a feller who understands . . . He cries out:

"Mommy, come quick, here's Hector!"

Then I see a couple tears break out of his clear blue eyes . . . and I say to myself . . . "Who am I to deserve all of this?"

ONLY ONE DOG

Well, I suppose I would find the same reception from every one of you swell kids . . . But, kinda remember I'm only one tiny tyke. Say, I've found you all most patient . . . you've been interested in my welfare . . . I sure know that is true through the letters you've written . . . So, I'm going to ask you all one more favor 'fore I sign off.

I'd like you to kinda think back a bit and remember all the nice things you've said that you'd do for me . . . and kinda consider that I'm a sorta ambassador for all Dogdom . . . and try out those suggestions of kindness to another dumb animal . . . Think of all the other pooches in this old world who'd like a break . . . Try being thoughtful to some other downtrodden mutt . . . and you'll find your day will be a lot happier.

Oh, Fellers, sakes . . . I almost forgot to tell you 'bout his pup . . . He's quite a gent in his own right, too . . . Yeh, he's the Chief of Police of Medfield and used to be a Boston police officer . . . So I guess I'll sorta rate round those diggings . . . Eh, what ??? There'll be no one ill treating me . . . No sircce . . . and another thing, Fellers, The Chief is also Dog Officer in the town . . . And that means I'll be out of reach of the dog catcher . . . And who knows . . . I may turn into a police dog!!!

Store Teeth Dog Dies
ABERDEEN, Wash., Oct. 11 (INS)—Mac, 17-year-old Boston terrier that gained nation-wide fame a year ago when he was fitted with a set of artificial teeth, is dead of old age.

The dog, owned by George Earle, hotel man, used his "store teeth" without trouble until his death. National magazines and newspapers gave wide publicity to his synthetic fangs.

Jack Doyle Loses Round Again

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—It's not all beer and skittles, this being an Irish Thrush and the handsomest man in the prize-ring.

Page Jack Doyle, idol of the concert halls, and Adonis of the squared circle!

Within the last few hours, he has been slapped by a strip-teaser who says she is his sweetheart, put into a deputy sheriff's custody by his manager, Tom McGovern, and presumably he's in a lot of trouble with Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell Godde, the motor car heiress he hopes to marry.

Handsome Jack was on the ropes, but not on the floor, at the end of the day, and still full of fight.

Which is more than can be said of him in some of his ring appearances.

Elinor Troy, the strip-teaser, started the day off wrong when she walked across the dining-room of The Midnight Sun on Broadway to lift a fast one from the floor and smack him in the face.

Always a gentleman, Jack took it.

"You had a date with me, and stood me up!" she stormed.

At the moment, he was sitting with Michi Taka, a Japanese entertainer.

Doyle first met Miss Troy in Hollywood, where she was known as "The Girl in the Fishbowl."

During the day, Doyle agreed to pay McGovern, his American manager, $35,000, and is promised a fight with Joe Louis.

The Irish singer and boxer—and some say "more singer than boxer," is the ex-husband of Judith Allen, once of Belmont, Mass.

The end was not yet, even after Deputy Sheriff Goldstein released him in the McGovern matter.

Returning to his rooms at the Hotel Roosevelt, he found Miss Troy and her hefty mother, Mrs. Elsie Edmonston, in possession.

There was a stormy scene, a deputy sheriff quelled the Troys and they departed in a blaze of indignation.

1700 Sit Down In Auto Plant

DETROIT, Oct. 12 (INS)—A United Automobile Workers Union sit-down strike today closed the Motor Products plant, leaving 2400 idle.

Approximately 1700 were inside the plant. The UAW strikers barred the plant gates an hour after the early shift began work today, refusing to permit entry or exit.

Local President Fred Durrance charged the management refused to meet with UAW President Homer Martin last night to negotiate a new contract.

Plant Manager L. R. Keiso denied that he had refused to see Martin.

Mayer Richard W. Reading and Police Commissioner Heinrich A. Fickert notified plant officials they would remove the sit-downers anytime the company requested. Fickert said the company refused his ejection offer, but added the offer is still open.

Face Trial in Wife Swap

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 12 (INS)

—The Doolittles and the Gruners, rested unperturbed in their mutual home despite serious charges of wife and husband swapping that hang over their heads.

They were released in 1906 on bail each in court. Mrs. Alfred Gruner and her husband swapping that hang over their heads.

Mrs. Doolittle on their promises to keep to their own mates until Tuesday when they will be brought to trial.

Mrs. Gruner and Mrs. Doolittle are prospective mothers and it is alleged that Doolittle is the father of Mrs. Gruner's forthcoming child and Gruner the father of Mrs. Doolittle's.

GLENN DOOLITTLE

ent of Mrs. Doolittle's.

The two families have been living together ever since last August when they pooled their resources as an economy move because Gruner was out of a job.

The Doolittles and Gruners are old friends of many years standing.

Gruner, 37, and Doolittle, 38, railroad firemen, were pals for 18 years. Mrs. Gruner, 34 and Mrs. Doolittle, 38, have been friends for a shorter time. The families used to play cards together and visit frequently.

On one of these visits, it was alleged, Mrs. Gruner told Mrs. Doolittle that she was expecting a child by Mrs. Doolittle's husband. Mrs. Doolittle, in turn told her secret to Mrs. Gruner.

Because Gruner was out of work it was suggested that the the Gruners move in with the Doolittles. Gruner and Mrs. Doolittle shared one room in the small flat and Doolittle and Mrs. Gruner the other, it was alleged.

The vast Buick factory is a grand place to visit, these days.

Down the roaring aisles, throughout the sprawling bays there's a sense of great things happening.

They're building something ultra, here at Buick, and they know it.

It looks like five years from now, they'll say of this dazzling 1939 Buick, and they're not talking of appearance only.

They're talking of "catwalk-cooling" that floods air under forced draft to ease the temperature of your engine.

They're talking of BuicOil springing and the soft shock-smothering spirals that give you the true "full float" ride.

They're talking of that Dynaflex great eight engine, instant with life and wringing good from every drop of fuel.

They're talking of weight-balance and gravity-center that hold you to your line—of wheels that camber to let you take the curves more safely—of new visibility—up to 413 square inches more glass in SPECIAL and CENTURY models.

They're talking a thousand and one details of Buick that you'll never know nor need to know but that to their schooled eyes spell a better built automobile. And they're thinking of now as they talk.

For they know that no car sells spectacularly when it's merely up-to-date. They know that for big years a car has to be ahead—that a car which looks like the future means better times for today.

You can see this car they're talking of at the nearest Buick showroom.

When you do see it, think of what the men who built it are saying, not boastfully, but with quiet sureness.

They know. And they're saying "Looks fine for '39!"

Duff Cooper Denies Hitler 'War' Charges

In the accompanying forceful second article, Right Honorable Alfred Duff Cooper, who remained at first the admiralty of Great Britain because of the Munich "peace agreement," emphatically denies Hitler's charge that he wanted war.

By THE RIGHT HON. ALFRED DUFF COOPER

Britain's Former First Lord of the Admiralty

(Special article)

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The chancellor of the German Reich stated on Saturday that there were certain people in England who desired war.

He mentioned my name as being one of them.

So grave an accusation coming from so high a quarter demands an answer in language more measured and temperate than that in which it was delivered.

There is nobody in this country who desires war. Let that be an axiom of discussion.

That Herr Hitler should believe otherwise is more surprising, seeing that he once had at his elbow his most trusted adviser, Herr Von Ribbentrop, recently ambassador to the Court of St. James, and who had therefore every opportunity of forming an accurate estimate of public opinion.

How best to prevent war in the existing circumstances is the only question which is agitating the minds of our countrymen.

NOT EASY IN PRACTICE

There are some who believe that the simplest method is refusal to fight. What sounds a simple theory is seldom easy in practice. The first thing a schoolboy discovers is that if he wishes to live in peace with his neighbors he must not allow it to be supposed that under no circumstances will he resort to force.

It is not the small and weak who are bullied in school. It is those who seek a spirit of resistance, but who when up the world as we have made it nothing can survive.

It may be argued that the Quakers enjoy a peaceful and prosperous existence but the Quakers have no recourse to a violent resort to physical violence and they live in a civilized community where physical violence is against the law.

The white police force and courts of law are on their side. If a colony of Quakers were planted among the tribes of Central Africa their survival would be problematical.

LEAGUE FAILED

In international affairs there is no force. The world as we know it is not the League of Nations.

tions might supply these deficiencies have been disappointed.

Nations are living under the law of the jungle where the doctrine of peace at any price means paying the price of shame and not getting peace in return for it.

Non-resistance means self-destruction.

Yet there are many people who, having been subjected to 20 years of intensive anti-war propaganda are almost unconsciously sinking into acceptance of the doctrine of peace at any price, without fully realizing it is a doctrine of despair.

It was interesting to watch a majority of the House of Commons last week applauding the extremist forms of pacifism, preached to them with unflinching charm and eloquence by Mr. James Maxton. They did not perceive whether his argument was conducting them; for he was logical and they were not.

LAW OF JUNGLE

He knows that a man who is living in the jungle, and who has many possessions which his neighbors envy, cannot hope to retain them unless he is prepared to defend them by force.

When therefore he gently explained to his new supporters the inevitable conclusion of his argument, namely that Great Britain must abandon her empire, they looked like crestfallen children suddenly tasting powder in their jam.

There was very little argument. Speaker after speaker harped upon one theme.

Last week we were in danger of war. Today we are safe. What does anything else matter? Let us thank God and the Prime Minister.

NO JUSTIFICATION

Then usually followed a vivid description of the horrors of war. But the horrors of war form no justification in ethics for adoption of a policy that is wrong, no more than the horrors of martyrdom justify denial of faith.

Wrongdoing is sometimes punished in this world, and fully nearly always.

We may then assume—we who are accused of wanting war—that refusal to fight is not the way to avoid it.

What other alternatives remain? The most obvious is determination to settle all outstanding disputes by peaceful negotiation.

But now we feel any confidence that this system will ever be seriously accepted by the Nazi regime in Germany?

ALFRED DUFF COOPER

seriously accepted by the Nazi regime in Germany?

Opportunities for negotiation in the past have all been neglected. We were willing to negotiate with a defeated but still weak Germany as proved by Locarno.

Germany might have negotiated before she repudiated the League of Nations, before she declared conscription, before she marched into the Rhineland, before she invaded Austria.

She professed a policy of swift action. After the march into the Rhineland, we showed ourselves willing to negotiate. We never received the civility of a reply.

Yet it is we who in the opinion of Herr Hitler, desire war.

He might have shown himself willing to negotiate at Berchtesgaden or Godesberg, but all our prime minister received was the privilege of being the bearer of an ultimatum.

THE MUNICH TREATY

There was negotiation at Munich but what kind?

It took place under the muzzle of cannon. It had to be concluded before dawn, for troops were due to cross the frontier on the morrow.

And it was the frontier they did according to plan.

Surely in the light of all these recent historical facts we cannot be accused of wanting war if we begin in despair of settling our differences with Germany by peaceful negotiation.

Where then does safety lie?

What hope remains?

Ever since Nazism was established with its extravagant ambitions and its avowed open force, I have felt the urgency of deciding upon a line beyond which we should not retreat.

LIMIT TO PATIENCE

In justice to Germany, we should not have the hope of that Germany would be able to negotiate with us on a basis of equality in the world, the earliest treaty.

A nation will come within its sphere of influence, but fresh demands will be made upon it. We should not find ourselves where we stand. If we are prepared to make the concessions we should inform Germany what the consequences are, and we should not negotiate with the consequences in mind, when the consequences have been made, the other will have been told.

Present that limit we cannot pass, we must say. Upon that line we stand, ever it may be drawn, the British Empire will stand fast.

Let Germany know this. It is the last serious moral order to the cause of peace.

Czechs Grant New Minority Concessions

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Czechoslovak government granted new minority concessions today and an autonomous regime for Carpathian Russians, and took steps to ease a staggering refugee problem.

Several truckloads left Prague for near frontiers this morning, starting the return of thousands of Sudeten Germans to Sudeten areas occupied by Germany.

The cost of caring for Czechoslovak refugees is so great a strain on the national economy, Czechoslovakia said, that few Sudetens will be permitted to remain here.

A parliamentary deputy, Andrew Brody, was appointed prime minister of the Carpathian Russian (Ruthenian) autonomous state, similar to that permitted the Republic's Slovak minority after Sudetensland was ceded to Germany.

The Sudeten refugees, most of them without funds, were ordered to register by noon today. Eight hundred Austrians who settled at Brno after Germany annexed Austria were ordered to leave the country within eight days.

Although economic circumstances are such few can remain here officials promised not to send back to Sudetensland those who could prove their lives or liberty would be endangered because of previous anti-Nazi attitudes.

Germany Seeking Pact With Czechs

BERLIN, Oct. 12 (AP)—Germany wants to resume normal business relations with Czechoslovakia at once.

To this end, a government spokesman said today, direct negotiations are proceeding independent of the international commission sitting in Berlin.

Hurricane Cuts N. E. Apple Crop

Hurricane, floods and rain combined to cut New England's apple crop during September, the New England crop reporting service of the United States Department of Agriculture announced today.

The New England apple crop was estimated at 618,600 bushels, 35 per cent below the crop harvested last year and 22 per cent below the 1937 average.

Hitler's Aid In Hungary Row Asked

KOMATOM, on the Czechoslovak-Hungarian border, Oct. 12 (AP)—Persons close to the Slovak delegation in the Komatom conference on the territorial dispute between Hungary and Czechoslovakia said today the Slovaks had asked Adolf Hitler to mediate "in this serious hour."

Slovaks said after a meeting today of the two delegations that they were so widely apart it did not appear their differences could be bridged by ordinary negotiation.

The only hope, they said, was that some foreign statesman could convince the Hungarian government that its demands were "very high" and a danger to European peace.

They believed that the Fuehrer of Germany, already master of the Sudetensland taken from Czechoslovakia, was the only man who might impress the Hungarians. Previously it had been reliably indicated that the Hungarians were asking for some 400 square miles of southern Slovakia and that the Slovaks to whom the Prague government has delegated the Komatom negotiations were willing to cede only about 240 square miles.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

MISCELLANEOUS: Mickey Alpert again will be the singing-maestro of a Boston floor show . . . When he returns today from New York, the pompadour rival of Harry Richman will conclude negotiations with the management of the Brown Derby . . . An amusing angle of the Alpert-Brown Derby dicker is that it will be Jimmy McHale's men who will decorate the bandstand under Mickey's leadership . . .

It will be recalled that McHale was maestro of the Brown Derby last season before Tony Brando charged that the suave musical-director and Tony's wife, Kitty, were seeing one another after business hours . . . Jimmy is reported in Columbus, Ohio . . . Kitty is no longer director of entertainment at the Arlington street cabaret . . . Tony, with a new partner, Joe Nordone, is still proprietor.

Judged by the rush of business in the cafes last night, Columbus Day is taking rank with the major holidays . . . Nor will tonight bring any let down in the busy past few weeks in which night club opening after opening has followed in rapid rate . . . At the Bradford Penthouse, a new show, called "52nd Street," will be unveiled . . . A "battle of music," with Leon Prima and Frank Ward as the contending maestros is a feature of the program . . .

Leon Prima is a brother of Louis Prima, who has more fame but less talent according to experts . . . They say that Leon looks a trifle harder and higher than his friendly rival, brother Louis . . .

The other premiere tonight is the re-opening of Walter Seaver's "Blue Train," at the Hotel Lenox . . . The room has been "done over" slightly, and now also a large and attractive annex, which is as yet not officially named . . . "The Monaco Room" is the tentative title . . . The titular problem may be solved soon because a canny genius from Revere has dropped a postcard in the mail addressed to Managing Director Seaver.

It is reported that although this is a fact that probably was not greatly excite James Farley, Manager Seaver was not altogether passive when he read the message on the card . . . It promised him in exchange for $5 paid "at once," to furnish a name that would tell the truth.

As co-attraction with Bert Lowe, who is directing a compact unit of Boston musicians from his familiar post at the piano, you will discover what is probably the loveliest doll appearing before any Boston microphone . . . Her name is Joan Hale . . . She has a nice voice, and is positively gorgeous . . .

Once Over Lightly:

William Wellman, war hero and film director, will arrive from Bermuda next week for the premiere of "Men With Wings" . . . This is a "cavalade" of aviation, and Mr. Wellman directed it . . . As he is a Newton boy and an infrequent visitor, the news has moment . . . "Men With Wings" will follow "If I Were King" at the Metropolitan.

Ray Milland, star of the film, is expected to arrive in town coincidentally with Director Wellman . . . Other arrivals next week will be Cole Porter (on crutches) and Sophie Tucker . . . Cole will come to Boston to see "Leave It to Me," his latest musical show . . . Although the show opens in New Haven Thursday night, Cole—who is a Yale man—will skip that town . . .

Perhaps Yale's two defeats in the first football games of the schedule has discouraged Cole so greatly that he is detouring the campus . . . Miss Tucker, a competent scout reports, is learning ice-skating . . . To reduce . . . Boston, no longer in the past than two weeks ago, liked Sophie as she is . . .

Two graduates of the Orpheum Playhouse will be present in plays scheduled to have Boston debuts next week . . . One is Jill Stren, daughter of the New York Times publisher, Lloyd Stern, who has a small role in "Show and Tell" . . . In other is William Brisbane, who will appear in support of Ina Claire in "Yankee Doodle" . . . It is interesting to learn that the main reason for the change of title of Miss Claire's vehicle (from "General's Need Bed" to "Yankee Doodle") is that the latter monicker coincided with Miss Claire's notions about numerology.

Frank Roane, a Democratic candidate for Congress from the 5th District, has a "show business" background . . . He once owned Roane's Pennsylvanians (not to be confused with Waring's). It was a recording orchestra in the main. He started Mal Hallett and Fletcher Henderson on their careers, too . . .

Following Jimmy Van Horn's visit to the Southland Area may expect the national agent of the crossroads of Pilsen Hawks, a comedian and popular who has been reported to be expected for more than a year at the very party of the New York Harbor in Harlem . . . The Hawks have been reported to be expected for more than a year at the very party of the New York Harbor in Harlem . . .

Harold Haden, once of the vaudeville firm of Jans and Whalen, will be one of the actors in "The Flying Ginzburs," which is not based on the habit of the local Ginzburs, Brandy of the Mayfair and Al of Calver's, to take to the air on the teeniest provocation . . . The title, instead, is based on an old vaudeville reference . . . An opening act, or one in the "dupe spot," was referred to by vaudevillians as "the flying ginzburs" . . .

For instances "In Scranton I followed the flying ginzburs" . . . The more important performers so named their less important colleagues, and the latter part names were changed, "Doodles and McCarty" . . . The opening Japanese dinner, a long had over for a period of years at the Mayfair . . . The new name of the Communist Group, which is now in process of being put into effect, will be the Boston Foreign League, which has behind the ranks of the "Boston Club" . . .

Jack Landon, former manager of the Fox and Hounds and now proprietor of the Red Couch Club, in W. End, is proud of a huge new fireplace in his restaurant. Business was great out there when the lamp was burning. The whole family made the place their eating headquarters . . .

Dave Alexander, the New York scribe, took first prize dancing the kazotky at Jake "Candy Kid" Rutlin's wedding reception at Dorchester Manor. Alexander slipped in a few evolutions of his own which resembled the shag . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

A. F. of L. Hits U. S. Drift Into Socialism

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 12 (INS).—A harsh indictment of governmental trends flatly asserting that America is drifting into Socialism was laid before the American Federation of Labor convention here today in the form of a final report from the resolutions committee.

Virtually stunning convention delegates with surprise, President William Green of the Federation immediately took the floor to protest adoption of the scorching report.

In 1927 reports the resolutions committee has attacked every phase of the Roosevelt social and labor program piecemeal. The final report wrapped up previous criticisms and delivered a sort of frontal attack which condemned the entire philosophy of the administration as one of constantly extending domination by government.

This trend, said the report, must be stopped ere the nation passes to be a democracy.

"Without any intention of using a label as a means of conveying disparagement," said the report, "we must say that it should be clear to every American that the philosophy which is being developed in action, by which ever increasing domain is being given to the state, is expressive of the philosophy and practice of Socialism."

"It may be that we must curb some of our own willingness to rush to the state (it was explained at the outset that this term referred to the federal government) for everything. It may be that many among our own ranks must cease to cry for the state to relieve every hurt."

"But someone, any by some means that trend must be stopped, or we shall cease to live in a democracy."

Harder had the report been read by Resolutions Committee Chairman Matthew W. Ward, president of the photo engravers when a bit later John J. Drake said:

British Troops Kill 6 Arabs

JERUSALEM, Oct. 12 (AP).—British troops, spreading out over the Holy Land in punitive expeditions to end Jewish-Arab violence, killed six Arabs in a clash with British troops today.

The troops were attempting to demolish a house in the Nablus district from which Arabs had been thrown Monday when the terrorists attacked soldiers from nearby Haifa.

Reinforcements arrived and the British fighters subdued the band in a 40-minute skirmish. Other reinforcements started for strategic posts in the Holy Land.

The troops, assisted by royal air force warplanes, inflicted heavy casualties on a band of raiders in a night attack on the Arab village of Tulkarm.

One British soldier was killed and one was wounded seriously.

Italy Clamps Down on Jews

ROME, Oct. 12 (INS).—Italy's minister of corporations today ordered Italian prefects to reject all future applications made by Italian Jews seeking permission to organize labor organizations of any kind.

The order was a new step in Premier Mussolini's anti-Semitic campaign, and followed a series of decrees issued last week by the grand council.

The State minimum wage commission of which Thomas C. Curley is chairman, has named a minimum wage board for the beauty culture occupation which will effect more than 5000 men and women engaged in that industry in Massachusetts.

The board will make a thorough investigation and report back its recommendations to the state commission as to wages and working conditions.

Those appointed to the investigation board are John A. Heenan of Brockton, chairman, representing the public; Lawrence DeAngelis of Boston, Miss Alice Rose Cyr of Brockton, and Mrs. Lottie Harrison of North Adams, representing the employers; and Miss Aida Harrison of Boston, Miss Esther Callahan, and Miss Salina Holmes of Worcester, representing employees.

Every member of the governor's council has received a letter from the executive council of the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor thanking them for postponing action at last week's meeting on the reappointment of Francis M. Curran as a member of the State Labor Relations Board.

Bostonians Cable Britain, Plead for Palestine Jews

Frederick May Eliot, William E. Gardner and Reverend Doctor Francis H. Rowley of Boston are included in a group of distinguished Christian Americans who addressed a plea by cablegram directly to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain urging the British government not to stop Jewish immigration to Palestine.

The cablegram represented the culmination of an effort among Americans of the Christian and Jewish faiths to avert a decision which, according to authenticated reports from London, would involve the abandonment by Great Britain of her Jewish national home policy in Palestine and the stoppage of Jewish immigration.

The Christian leaders, including representatives of the Catholic and Protestant denominations, and noted laymen as well as clergymen, emphasized to Prime Minister Chamberlain that the stoppage of Jewish immigration at this time would be regarded by the entire world as a surrender to the forces of violence and hatred now sweeping the world.

Among the signatories to the cablegram were former Governor Alfred E. Smith and District Attorney Thomas E. Dowd, of New York; Bishop James E. Frawley of Washington; Jeremiah T. Mahoney, Bay View, Boston; Dr. A. F. King, editor of the Christian Herald, and Bishop Isaac Leo Hill of St. Louis.

Dr. Eliot is president of the American Unitarian Association, Gardner is secretary of the National Young People's Christian Union. Dr. Rowley is president of the American Humane Education Society.

All make their headquarters in Boston.

'King' Contest Ends Tomorrow

Hurry! Hurry! Contest fans! "If I Were King" Movie Contest ends at midnight tomorrow.

For the benefit of those who may be unfamiliar with details, let us explain how really simple it is to participate, with the chance of winning a valuable cash prize or guest theater tickets.

The contest is based on Ronald Colman's new picture "If I Were King." Paramount's super production opening today at the Metropolitan Theater. In the film, Colman, as Francois Villon, swash-buckling poet-rogue, is given the opportunity to act as ruler of France for one glorious week.

What Would You Do IF YOU WERE KING?

Write your answer in 100 words or less, and mail it to the Contest Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight Thursday, October 12. Prizes total $100 in cash plus theater tickets and are to be awarded as follows: 1st, $50; 2nd, $25; 3rd, $10; 4th, $5, and five prizes of $2 each. To each of the next 25 will be awarded one pair of guest tickets to the Metropolitan Theater.

A Great Principle of Democracy

WHEN PRESIDENT WASHINGTON learned that his name had been used for "electioneering purposes," he wrote a stinging LETTER OF REBUKE to John Francis Mercer.

Let this letter remind AMERICANS TODAY that the liberty to choose their own Representatives in Congress may not be lost by the people without LOSS OF LIBERTY ITSELF.

Excerpts from that letter to Mr. Mercer, famous as a soldier, Congressman and Governor of Maryland, in which one of the GREAT PRINCIPLES OF DEMOCRACY was set forth, are reprinted herewith:

SEPTEMBER 26, 1792.

"I COME now to another part of your letter, and in touching upon it, do not scruple to declare to you that I was not a little displeased to find by a letter from Capt. Campbell to a gentleman in this neighborhood, that my name had been freely used by you or your friends for electioneering purposes, when I had never associated your name and the election together; and when there had been the most scrupulous and pointed caution observed on my part, not to express a sentiment respecting the fitness or unfitness of any candidate for Representative that could be construed, by the most violent torture of the words, into an interference in favor of one, or to the prejudice of another.

"Conceiving that the exercise of an influence (if I really possess any) however remote would be improper; as the people ought to be entirely at liberty to choose whom they pleased to represent them in Congress . . .

"I instantly declared to the person who showed me the letter . . . that such a measure would have been incompatible with the rule I had prescribed to myself, and which I had invariably observed, of not interfering directly or indirectly, with the suffrages of the people, in the choice of their representatives . . ."

1492—COLUMBUS DAY—1938

The Editor Says:—Columbus Day brings a picture of three frail ships, wave-battered and storm-tossed, venturing for frightening weeks into the vast unknown of the western sea, coming at length to safety and a new world.

Probably no date in the entire Christian era will ever approach the importance and significance of October 12, 1492.

For the discovery of America was not only the discovery of a new continent; it was also the discovery of a NEW and FREER WAY OF LIVING by Europeans slowly strangled in the grip of autocracy, bureaucracy and intolerance.

From the time America was discovered a new vision, a new hope—a boundless hope—came into the world. LIBERTY WAS REBORN.

A REALIZATION of that hope and a product of that vision was the United States, founded 234 years later by men and the sons of men who had come to these shores with the same UNCONQUERABLE COURAGE and INDEPENDENCE OF SPIRIT that governed the great Italian navigator.

We cannot see America as it is today, towering skylines, fabulous cities, mastery of the sea and sky and elements, without telling ourselves that our ancestors who made the East and the West were COLUMBUSES.

Their strength was the strength that fired Columbus—an INDESTRUCTIBLE INDIVIDUALISM and an UNYIELDING ADVENTUROUSNESS.

Today, let us celebrate Columbus Day in a manner befitting a grateful people's tribute to a great leader and an immortal inspiration.

Let our observances be more than mere parades, speech-making and gestures.

Let us firmly resolve never to share the hatreds, bitterness and intolerance that still afflict the Europe our forefathers, those other Columbuses, fled to establish the liberties that have been bequeathed to us.

GREYNA GREENS in New Hampshire are shrouded in gloom. Marriages are falling off, almost to the zero mark. Judges and justices who only a few weeks ago did a thriving business marrying hundreds with great speed and little publicity are experiencing a depression that makes past crises look like prosperity. Blame is placed on the State's new "blood test" law.

Most people, especially clergymen and Divorce Court judges, will have their own views concerning blood test statutes, but regarding the passing of Greytna Greens there will be an unanimity of opinion. They will say, "Good riddance."

The Human Side of the News

Europe's "War" of Hot Words

By EDWIN C. HILL

COURTESY, 1938, King Features Synd., Inc. THE GERMANS are dashing up and down the Maginot Line with radio trucks, blasting at the ramparts with canned fire-and-brimstone speeches by little Doc Goebbels, taunts to the feeble and decaying democracies, execrations of Czechoslovakia and devastating belches of "Deutschland Ueber Alles" and "Horst Wessel." It is an interesting idea, blowing down fortresses in this way, but not new.

"So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets; and it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that the wall fell down flat, so that the people went up unto the city, every wall straight before him, and they took the city."

There is no doubt that, before launching its attack, the German high command studied the record of how Joshua blew down the walls of Jericho. It is perhaps tactless to bring it up here, but there is a disquieting fact to be noted. The Nazis are following a precedent which is entirely non-Aryan. It looks as if somebody might get into trouble if word of this gets to Berchtesgaden.

However, the Nazi trumpeters have another strictly Aryan precedent and that may give them an out. Their ancient, soundly Aryan gods of the Wittenagmoot used to settle their intra-mural quarrels by mountain-top yelling contests.

Feral groups of hignuts would take their stand on mountain tops on each side of the valley. Then they would call each other all the names they could think of, with all their lung power. Officials scored the carrying power of the voice. The loudest yell, provided the name-calling was up to the league average, got the decision.

It sounds like a rather gaudy idea. The French, too, are pretty good in encounters of this kind, which fact will be attested by anyone who ever got into an argument over a bill with a testy old concierge.

If they moved a similar number of sound trucks up to the Maginot Line and started blasting at the Germans, the decision to go to the most resourceful and most temperate, and if they just let it go at that, it might provide one of those substitutes for war, which preoccupied the late William James.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

COLLEGE STUDENTS are again within easy lurking distance of the classrooms. They are back in the universities for a series of reasons. They want to make the tactics to bring it up here, but there is a disquieting fact to be noted. The Nazis are following a precedent which is entirely non-Aryan. It looks as if somebody

The New Promise Of American Life'

By MERRILE STANLEY RUKEYSER

Is an Address Before the Addressing Club of Baltimore IV.

It seems to me that in recent years there has been a great inflation in the United States—an inflation of the importance of government.

In 1937, government in the United States—local, State and Federal—spent vastly more than the entire national income produced by the people in 1890. The difference is not made up by the growth in wealth and population in the meantime. For the record shows that in 1890 government spending absorbed but 7 per cent of the national income, whereas in 1937 governmental outlay amounted to 25 per cent of the net income produced last year.

In other words, in 1890 a typical worker gave up the proceeds of less than one working day in 14 as his tribute to government, whereas in 1937 spending, though not taxation, was at a rate to absorb the product of one day's work out of every four of a worker; the total national income in 1890 was estimated at slightly more than 12 billion dollars, while actual expenditures by government last year was in excess of 16½ billion dollars.

This change is all performed in the name of progress. We have evidently devised a system which enables thrifty and industrious citizens to forego a large part of their income and turn it over to bureaucrats who are supposed to be wiser and more generous than they are.

WHY DOES business emerge from the depths so haltingly?

It appears to me that a major trouble is that business is trying to climb the hill of recovery with the brakes on.

A significant retarding influence is the growing disparity between agriculture and industry, as reflected in the sustained weakness in farm prices.

The fact is that the present agricultural act provides much additional regulation for farmers, but not much more income.

I believe that we must look to internal causes in our economy for the maladjustments from which we are now suffering. I believe it would be dangerous and quixotic to beg the questions that face us—difficult technological questions of economic balance. To beg these questions and look for an easy way out through a Marxian formula or some other panacea would be frivolous in the face of the urgent needs of millions of our people.

Ex-Boston Department Store Employee on Stage

Robert Shayne, whose performance as Ronny in "Whiteoaks" is listed by George Jean Nathan as one of the best seen in the New York stage last season, made his Boston professional stage debut in "Whiteoaks." His bold, lashed, and lashed with the drama group of the Boston Federation of Unitarian Churches.

He played the Willie Collier role in "Nothing But The Truth"—an ambitious beginning for a boy.

At the time Shayne was employed by a local department store and was attending Boston University night school. His ambition was to become a preacher of the Unitarian Church—a desire that was partly, if not entirely, gratified, for upon several occasions he had occupied the pulpit of various Unitarian churches under his full name, Robert Shayne Dawe.

Dowling Happy Over 'Shadow And Substance'

When Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the distinguished English actor, came to the United States to play the part of the Duke of Wellington in the play "Shadow and Substance," he was met by a warm reception.

For four weeks the play will be shown at the Loew's State Theatre. Dowling, who was born Joseph Nelson Goucher in Providence, 40 years ago, has a father who was French and a mother who was English. Dowling is her name that he has used. Dowling, throughout a spectacularly successful stage career that includes acting, song writing, starring, playwriting and producing.

Season before last, when Maurice Evans wanted to do Shakespeare's "Richard II," Dowling was the only Broadway producer who was willing to take the chance. The play was a success. It ran in New York for 23 weeks.

After that, it was not so surprising when he decided to produce "Shadow and Substance," which he had heard about even before Richard Madden, playwright Paul Vincent Carroll's representative brought it to him. He was wise enough to know that Sir Cedric Hardwicke was the player to play the role of the Canon, and patient enough to wait seven months until he could get him.

There is a chance of a change of management at the Loew's State Theatre. It is reported that the theatre is to be sold to the Loew's State Theatre Company, which is a subsidiary of the Loew's State Theatre Company, which is a subsidiary of the Loew's State Theatre Company.

Miss Claire described her role in "Shadow and Substance" as that of an "intriguer" as well as comedienne, a woman of beauty, who desires to engage in an unconventional flirtation in order to carry out her ideas on freedom and the democratic form of life.

William Gaxton, who initiated the idea that a musical comedy hero could possess humor as well as romantic appeal and make audiences love it, will no doubt be moving "in down" as is his custom, when he and Victor Moore open here Monday evening at the Shubert in "Leave It to Me," the new Vinton Freedley musical.

Gaxton's explanation of his effectiveness as an entertainer is as simple as all get out.

"If I can't feel that I'm having the time of my life I can't make the audience feel that way," he says.

That's the title of this grand picture. It's also what CLARK GABLE thinks of MYRNA LOY and vice versa!

Said Clark Gable to Myrna Loy: "You're the type that gives me joy!" Said Myrna Loy to Mister Gable: "I'm willing, sir, and you are able!"

The best news since "Test Pilot" with that rare pair of romancers, M-G-M's tantalizing twosome. Clark's a dare-devil newsreel man—Myrna's an air-devil aviatrix... Action! Heart-pumping paradise for thrill and fun-loving picture fans!

BETTY ALDEN

On Beacon Hill

Janet Pierce's
Debut Friday

By BETTY ALDEN

THE DEBUTANTES and their older sisters will be lucky if they get any more than forty winks over this coming week-end ... for the Harvard-Army game has given hostesses a wonderful excuse for entertaining, and practically every minute will be crowded with partying ...

Numerous after-the-game cocktail parties will provide hoarse and tired football fans with an opportunity to catch their breath and relax a few moments before the evening's round of dinners and dances begins ...

Outstanding among the after-game parties will be the cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Lincoln Pierce of Brookline in honor of Mr. Pierce's debutante sister, Janet Pierce of Bay State road ...

Janet will make her official curtsy to society at a tea dance Friday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walworth Pierce ... and several of her sister debs who will serve as pourers on that occasion will be in the group of about fifty at the young Wallie Pierces' party ... Guests will include Hope Halsey, Polly Harwood, Nancy Bertelsen, Jane McNeill, Eleanor Roosevelt, Nancy Lee, Leslie Ernst, Nancy Nichols and Patricia Phelan ... Among their escorts will be Bill Chick, Edward Fitzpatrick, Douglas Harlow, Norman Pierce, Robert Pearmain, Aldrich Hunt, Robert Jennings, Richard Both and William Bannard ...

Child Guidance Lectures Start

YOUNG SOCIETY MATRONS who are convinced that bringing up future debutantes and Harvardians is a two-man job, made so many requests of the Judge Baker Guidance Center for evening lectures in the annual course on child guidance, that the new series is being inaugurated this year ... so they can take along their husbands to hear the latest theories on the job of being a parent from expert psychiatrists and lecturers ...

Dr. Ira S. Wile, lecturer and author, of Columbia and other universities, who came on from New York to open the series last evening, killed two birds with one stone on this trip, for he also opened the morning series, giving a brilliant talk on the relative place of parents and children in the home ...

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Campbell (Lorraine Leeson) were among the young couples enjoying the first of the evening lectures, which take place in the State suite at the Copley-Plaza ... They sat with Mr. Mortimer Seabury while Mrs. Seabury, who is a guiding light in the lecture series, checked over reservation lists with Mrs. Chauncey Gray (Pauline De Fries) the head usher ... Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bowditch were other interested listeners as were Dr. Augusta Bronner and Mr. Stephen Cabot ...

Others interested in this series are Mrs. Charles E. Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bosworth, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cabot, Mrs. John Codman, Mrs. Chilton Cabot and Mrs. John Hollis ...

Anstiss Dana Feted at Luncheon

GUESTS INVITED to the luncheon which Mr. and Mrs. David P. Wheatland are giving this afternoon for Anstiss Dana, were asked to bring comfy shoes, for games and sports will comprise the after-luncheon program ... The party takes place at the Wheatlands' country estate in Topsfield, where a number of debs and their boy friends (the holiday gives an excuse for a mixed party) are gathering to honor Anstiss, daughter of Mrs. Duncan Dana of Cambridge ...

Buffalo Girl Joins
In Parties Here

LOUISA ROBINS

BETHA BIGELOW

THE MORNING MAIL must be very heavy at the Henry Forbes Bigelow home, with two popular debutantes in the household and a veritable landslide of invitations arriving to bid them to parties here, there and everywhere. Louisa Robins just arrived from her home in Buffalo to spend several weeks with the Bigelows' daughter, Barbara. Both girls are included on Boston's debutante list.

Bray-McEnaney
Ceremony

White broadened velvet was Rosemary McEnaney's choice of wedding gown as she became the bride of Weldon Bray of Boston this morning in St. Peter's Church, Dorchester.

She wore a face veil of white tulle which fell from a satin nape and she carried a prayerbook with orchids as markers. Virginia Nagle, her only attendant, wore havoc taffeta. An unusual touch was her duobonnet velvet prayerbook, trimmed with sweetheart roses.

Many members of the Præputius Club, in which Rosemary takes a prominent part, attended the wedding and reception at the Jacquemont Club.

Suzanne Seyburn
Stays in Boston

Miss Suzanne Seyburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weason Seyburn of Detroit is continuing her stay in the East, though her parents have returned to their Detroit home.

Miss Seyburn is receiving invitations to the parties of her sister debs in Boston, in care of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blumer, whose daughter, Nancy, is one of her closest friends.

REGIS DANCE

A gala salute to Halloween is being planned by Regis College alumnae holding a dance at the Hotel Somerset the last Friday night in October. Elizabeth Donovan is chairman.

Katherine Erwin,
Braintree Girl,
Holiday Bride

Katherine Erwin of Braintree was one of the day's glowing brides as she walked altarward on the arm of her brother, Walter, to become the bride of Martin Canavan of Cambridge in Sacred Heart Church in Weymouth.

The 10 o'clock ceremony at which Rev. James Lynch, pastor of the church, presided, was followed by breakfast and reception at the Toll House in Whitman.

The bride's gown of heavy ivory satin was topped by a tulle veil. Allerton lace edged her wedding dress and formed the cap of her veil. Her sister, Josephine, Mrs. Charles Crowley of Concord, N. H., was honor attendant. She wore an empire-styled frock of ashes of roses velvet, accented by a modified doll hat of royal blue velvet.

Gowned alike in royal blue velvet and matching hats were the bridesmaids, Mary Holleran of Gloucester and Anna Murphy of Milton. They carried arm bouquets of fall flowers.

John Canavan served as his brother's best man.

Miss Tomasello
Honored

It was a happy birthday for Rosario Tomasello, who celebrated the gala day with a small supper party in the Sheraton Room of the Copley-Plaza.

Rosario's black velvet sported a fashionable boogie-woogie, a pick of which adorned her upswart coiffure. Receiving with her was her mother, Mrs. Joseph Tomasello, who wore a black crepe dinner suit combined with lame.

Among the guests were Billie Noonan, her picturesque taffeta landed in black velvet, Eunice Murphy, Norma Noonan, Bianca Rosano, Gretchen Coleman, Florence De Angelis and Mrs. George Murphy.

Escorts included Arthur Coleman, John and Charles Bowen, William Paul Sirignano, Joshua Petrillo, Anthony Tomasello and Anthony Soraci.

Margaret Holliday
Dorchester Bride

Margaret Gertrude Holliday, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Holliday, of Rowell street, Dorchester, was married today to Hugh Joseph Gilligan, Jr., of Roxbury, in St. Peter's Church, Dorchester.

Following the 10 o'clock ceremony a reception was held in the Dorchester Plaza.

Ellin Dowling Becomes
Bride in Brookline

The day's most fashionable wedding took place in St. Mary's of the Assumption Church in Brookline when Ellin Dowling, daughter of Mrs. Ambrose Dowling, exchanged wedding vows with William Buffum.

White gladioli and chrysanthemums banked the chancel for the ceremony at which Rt. Rev. Michael J. Spillane officiated. White satin, veil of tulle and a cluster of orchids comprised the bride's costume.

Her sister, Anne, honor attendant, was gown'd in duobonnet velvet with pancake hat of the same material. Her future sister-in-law, Marcy Buffum, served as bridesmaid. Both carried muffs of chrysanthemums.

Alumnae Dance in
MiltonMARY BULGER
Heads Committee

Roxbury Notre Dame Alumnae will sponsor a group of its younger members in a novel Record Hop on Friday evening at the Milton Women's Club.

Mary Bulger of Milton, is chairman of the affair, capably assisted by Claire Carow, Anne Leary, Veronica Skelley, Catherine Burns, Josephine Henneberry, Mary O'Brien, Mary McNulty, Eleanor Bliehr, Anna Dougherty and Mary Morrisroe.

Among those who have already subscribed are Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bulger, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Caulfield, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Watson, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Hickey and Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Foley.

Others who will be on hand for the gala evening are Eleanor Campbell, Margaret King, Katherine Cashman, Rose Fitzgibbon, Margaret Butler, Mary Reardon, Augusta Gallagher and Louise Gavin.

Nancy Leiter
Dinner Hostess

Miss Nancy Leiter of Washington, D. C. and Beverly Farms, is returning to Beverly Farms this evening after a week-end trip to New York and Washington. Friday evening, Miss Leiter will be hostess at one of the numerous dinner parties presiding the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chaffetz are giving in Beverly to introduce their daughter Betty.

Pump-Priming Evils Cited

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Before me lies an inquiry put out by an organization which supplies debaters with arguments.

It says that this year the colleges and universities of the nation are going to debate the proposal that the U. S. should cease to use public funds for the purpose of stimulating business. What is meant, is the "pump-priming policy." My opinion is asked.

I would have supposed that after four years of "pump-priming," we would have learned our lesson.

The President has just announced that the current program will reach its peak next spring.

But it was begun early last summer. Evidently the timing speed and duration are uncertain. How do we know when the peak of the end will be? (We don't.)

More immediately important as affecting business psychology, is the question, what will happen when the "priming" ceases next spring (if it ceases)? (The answer is Nobody knows!)

Will deflationary brakes be clamped down as was the case in the spring of 1937?

If not, will a mere tapering off of the government spending have the effect of announcing that the game is finished?

Two sorts of vicious circles are being set up.

One is the circle of inflation and resulting monetary uncertainty. The more the government spends the more funds it needs. If it raises taxes, it kills business. So it has to borrow, (this causes an easy money policy.)

But the more it borrows the more debt it piles up for the future to carry as an asset. This debt is the basis for a huge mass of inflation bank deposits. (This causes a tendency to rising prices and high money rates.)

The other is the circle of collectivism, or government "partnership" in business. The huge spending requires that the government find means of increasing its checks and notes. It therefore devises schemes such as PWA, AAA etc. etc. all of which tend to put the government into business (and so, the bureaucracy and its friends organize and fight to hang on).

The only way to get the U. S. out of business is to cut its spending in half.

Won't eight years be enough?

American Gas Honors Goodwin

Paul M. Goodwin, of Newton, vice president of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, has been elected national chairman of the American Gas Association at the annual convention now being held in Atlantic City. It was announced today.

Mr. Goodwin has been president of the gas industry for 42 years, starting as a clerk in 1896 and becoming vice president in 1904. He was president of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company in 1934 and has held numerous positions in the New England and national organizations.

Republic to Meet Steel Price Cuts

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12 (AP).—Republic Steel Corp. and Ohio Steel Co. officials indicated that they probably will meet "competitive conditions" which have brought about by large companies to Detroit, a reduction of $4 a ton.

"We have not come to any conclusion but naturally we have to be competitive," said J. M. Hubbard, president of the Republic Steel Corp. in charge of sales.

Profit Taking Stalls Rally in Stock Prices

By BROADEN WALL
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (INS).—Irregularly continued the keynote of stock market dealings yesterday. Efforts to rally prices were frustrated by persistent pre-holiday profit-taking. Minus signs outnumbered plus for the second day in a row.

Principal development in the business picture was the $4 a ton cut in steel sheet prices for the auto industry.

Change in the averages were slight. Industrials eased 0.14 to 129.41 and rails 0.09 to 39.44. Utilities, however, showed the trend with a rise of 0.10 to 21.83.

Loft turned in another spectacular performance, up 2 1/2 points at one time to 9, the highest level since 1929. When it was learned the steel industry would appeal the recent court decision giving 91 per cent of Pepsi-Cola stock to Loft, it closed up at 4 1/2.

U. S. Steel was off 1/4 and up 1/4. General Motors finished off 1/4. General Electric converted a 1-point loss into a gain of 1/4.

Westinghouse 13 1/2, the jumped 2 points to a new 123 1/2 top. Sloan and Sheffield reported 11 points and retained 4. Norfolk & Western gained 4, and Bohn Aluminum 1 1/4.

Among larger declines were 2 1/4 in Philip Morris, 1 1/4 in Allied Chemical, 1 1/4 in American Locomotive, 1 1/4 in Union Pacific, 2 1/4 in Sears, Roebuck and Co. in United Fruit.

Wheat was up more than a cent. Corn, cotton and rice were lower. Cotton finished 2 points higher to 2 lower.

The bond market was mixed. Government bonds were somewhat easier.

German obligations were strong. Major foreign currencies traded, but slid off again.

Sheridan Named Penn. Manager for Carstairs

Announcement is made today by James M. Elliott, vice president, American-Bone Drilling Co., Inc., of the appointment of Jack Sheridan as district manager for Pennsylvania.

Mr. Sheridan was born and brought up in Watertown, raised as a fisherman. He has worked for the United States Fish & Rubber Co. and the Water Oil Co. in various capacities. He was district manager for another company before coming to Carstairs.

His previous work with the Carstairs Co. is currently being in Pennsylvania is attributed by Mr. Sheridan to four things: the excellent reputation the name Carstairs has acquired in the state since 1928, the extreme care used in the company's distilling and blending operations, the up-to-dateness of the company's packaging and advertising, and the growing public preference for full-flavored whiskey of light body and lower proof.

Carstairs officials add one more reason: Jack Sheridan.

Mr. Sheridan's office is in the Liberty Lincoln Building, Philadelphia.

Urges States Collect U. S. Income Taxes

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKETTER

International News Service
Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (C. C. Brown, Oklahoma tax commissioner, chatting with me about relations between government and business, criticized private executives for being negative toward political matters.

"Business men," he said, "are too often content to say what the government should not do. They rarely offer advice as to what government should do."

"We, and others who believe in the capitalist system, should go actively in advocating reduction of federal government, which is the bulwark of our liberties. It is all right to demand that laws be made more efficient, but tendency to shift power to the central government are fraught with danger."

Mr. Brown candidly discussed his efforts to make the regulations affecting the state income tax conform to the federal income tax requirements. He advocates that the procedure should be identical in both jurisdictions, and that a single return by the taxpayer would suffice for both.

Mr. Brown's proposal is that the state should collect both the federal and the state income taxes, and remit to the federal government its share. This would cut the local collection costs, and remove such irritation, he says.

In Oklahoma, the state income tax rate runs from 1 to 3 per cent. The tax commissioner probably would like to see the maximum rate reduced to 6 per cent, feeling that this would cut down opposition and would not reduce net receipts. After taxes reach a certain point, it becomes economically feasible to sell tax receipts while lowering rates. This is notably considered in the case of the capital gains tax, he says.

U. S. Merchant Ship Building Up 50 P. C.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—An increase of 50 per cent in the volume of merchant vessel construction in the United States, but a decline of more than 100,000 gross tons in the volume of such construction in the world as a whole, is reported by Lloyd's register of shipping.

Business Index Nears High

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

The improvement in business since early summer has been so steady, even if not spectacular, that many trade indices are now threatening to break through the January high point.

Auto Industry Ponders Ford, Martin Parley

DETROIT, Oct. 12 (AP).—The automobile industry labor and management alike pondered today the significance of Homer Martin's "cordial call" on Henry Ford.

For the time being, yesterday's Martin-Ford conversation, followed by Martin's discussions with Harry Bennett, personnel chief of the Ford Motor Co., superseded in interest the 32-hour work week conferences with other auto companies.

Martin's United Automobile Workers are seeking a 32-hour system in a "share-the-work" for the rehiring period in the auto industry, which currently is picking up speed to meet orders.

To suggestions Martin's visit, which was confined to an exchange of pleasantries with Ford but included a talk on labor problems with Bennett, indicated friendlier relations between the UAW and the Ford Company, Bennett said.

"There never was a fight between the company and organized labor. The only trouble was when some people tried to storm our gates. They can't do that. But if the men want to organize, it's all right with us."

In mentioning "the only trouble," Bennett referred to the riot outside the Ford Rouge River plant May 26, 1937, when UAW organizers at handbills distributed came to blows with Ford employees.

Martin said he and Bennett, together two and a half hours, discussed the "various problems of the automobile industry, including the 32-hour week, equalization of wages, and proper working conditions for employees." The visit, he said, was "cordial and friendly."

Upward Trend Seen by Sloan

DETROIT, Oct. 12 (AP).—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr. is "encouraged for the first time in many years that American business and industry will build for a long upward pull."

The chairman of the board of General Motors Corp., addressing a convention of automobile dealers and distributors, emphasized on promising fall prospects which he said should be followed by continued improvement. He reported a sudden rush of orders within the last 48 hours.

"Advance orders for cars already on the market," Sloan said, "are in excess of last year, and in some cases they are even better than the year before."

Principal U. S. Markets Closed

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—Financial America recognized Columbus Day by suspending operations in leading security and commodity exchanges today. Chiefly affected were the New York Stock Exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade and other leading grain markets, and all local commodity exchanges. Livestock markets, however, functioned as usual. Leading European and Canadian markets adhered to normal schedules.

The January high point was something of a psychological barrier coinciding with the advent of the new year, and following on the heels of a sharp down trend in 1937.

The line has now crossed the '37 low point while it is improbable that the comparable level of a year ago will be broken. It is thought the low point will soon be left well behind.

Two dependable indicators of physical business volume are responsible for the encouraging showing posted by the business index compiled by the Administrative and Research Corp.

They are automobile production and building contracts awarded. Both jumped sharply above previous levels, and the first of the two should continue to move up. The second may improve, but it seems almost certain to expect another better than five index points improvement.

Mild contributors to gain were cotton forwardings and freight receipts. These two should continue to aid the rise and, with motor production, make good our forecast.

The stock market is in the that in-between stage that makes life miserable for all observers. It seems undecided as to whether it should finish out a technical reaction move, or begin to expect another better than five index points improvement.

However, we do know that if it is sideways and a break through on the upside follows the flat is on its way to new heights. Particularly if the falls fulfill all technical requirements by crossing 31.39 on a close. Then the thing that should be done is buy, and quick.

Notebook. A good pickup in foreign buying is said to assure American Corp. of per share earnings at least equaling the $2.78 shown last year. Business with domestic consumers is up, but it should improve in 1939 and with other factors holding steady bring in another $2 per share. When figures showing that sales of single family dwellings are keeping even with new construction the strength of supply stacks is easy to understand.

A little apprehension that is that about 10 per cent of all such construction is speculative. And, if the new homes are moving, builders are naturally encouraged to expand a little. If material supply firms ease credit terms, even larger construction figures should be forthcoming.

FOR YOUNG AND OLD AT DRUGGISTS

Austen Lake:

An Odious Comparison; Gloucester vs. Newport

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 12.

THIS MAY BE HERESY TO THE nautical nuts, but to old barroom boozers like me, there is less excitement in a heavyweight sailing race than if two garbage scows with cargoes of potato peelings were racing to dump their loads at sea.

AUSTEN LAKE

No! For me the greatest charm in the fishermen's race off this quaint, piscatorial port is not the sight of the Gertrude L. Thebaud and the Bluenose shaking spume off their snouts or the snowy whiteness of Cap'n Ben Pine's and Angus Walter's canvas.

The charm is the honking, tooting and scoting herd of pursuing craft which go scurrying after—little sun-blistered lobster craft, stumpy steam trawlers and wind-jamming "bankers" loaded with folk who find livings on the sea or from the finny creatures in it.

It was miraculous that none of the little beagle boats were bumped by the big St. Bernards. But nobody bashed a hull or scraped off a neighbor's paint.

This is a professional sea-dogs' contest. Gone are the deck-chair admirals and their bell-bottomed ladies who chased T. O. M. Sopwith's and Mike Vanderbilt's million-dollar marine toys. Newport last year and cared neither jot nor tittle about the technical tricks of sailing.

This is for the barnacle Bolls and tubtoots Anlies who love the kids of salt spray and are cousins to Mother Carey.

Time is Newport's nautical grandeur and their afterdeck Juddies who regard owning a big, floating hotel as an essential part of a rich man's equipment and the cup race as an excuse for an alcoholic holiday.

This is for the cognoscenti of the steam winch, the lobster pot and the dory.

Gloucester Did It Decorously

AFTER THE SECOND RACE in this series was called off last evening, the kibitzer boats scattered along the coast between Gloucester and Boston, each to its home cove, pier or shelter.

Except for local craft there was no big traffic jam in Gloucester harbor, notwithstanding the fact that the superstitious fishermen and no U. S. navy sailing in cushioned luxury and carrying shanks were sometimes nudged and sometimes saluted over the bumpers when unattended flunkies lurked at and with, and in the midst of the fishermen's As they had at Newport.

The two boats that were out of the race last night were the first to be out of the race last night. The first to be out of the race last night were the first to be out of the race last night.

I would not say that the Gloucester fishermen were decorated with the same decorations as the Newport fishermen. I would not say that the Gloucester fishermen were decorated with the same decorations as the Newport fishermen.

Journalists Drop Cynicism

NOR ARE THERE ANY SOCIETY EDITORS and name-snoopers to extol American royalty in Gloucester. There is no royalty here. So the waterfront journalists are sticking to the plain, race facts instead of keynoting cynicism, as they did at Newport.

The waterfront writers who covered the American Cup races in '37 described the superstitious sailors as a lot of stuffed bosons while the lady society editors described the same people as our best and most ornamental citizens.

It was all very confusing to the reader to have some Newport notable mentioned as a "dioroid" millionaire in one section of the paper and as a "fashionable and popular man about town" in another.

There are no notables among the fishermen of Gloucester and so the journalists, with nothing but keys and hard money in their pockets, have no temptation to scratch a social itch at expense of the defenceless rich.

There are no defenceless rich in Gloucester, and the fish-people, for the most part, have nothing but keys and hard money in their pockets, too. So they're now our best and most ornamental people.

Last evening as I moved along the harbor way, peering seaward and sniffing odors of kelp, kelp line and dimglow, there was no key for the sea-people in their worn hats.

Well I had moved thus also along the Newport waterfront during the Cup contests, which I saw well how it would be to own one of those expensive motor boats with its own motor, of swift, its crew and luxury and just what a big, hard-earned and shiny. Shiny it is, for the Gloucester and have the steward unwork some more Newport, finally.

Durocher Brooklyn Pilot

Dressen, Killefer Aides; Babe Ruth Out

NEW YORK, Oct. 12. AP

Leo Durocher, veteran shortstop of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today signed a one-year contract to manage the team in 1939, General Manager Larry MacPhail announced.

Durocher, one of the best defensive shortstops in the history of the game, was a member of the Dodgers' first World Series team in 1955. He was a member of the Dodgers' first World Series team in 1955. He was a member of the Dodgers' first World Series team in 1955.

Durocher's first official act was to appoint Dressen and Killefer as his coaches. The manager said Ruth had been out of the game since the 1934 season.

"I considered both the Babe and Wilson," said Durocher, "but found they were not available. I understood Ruth wants to be a manager."

Cubs Feeling Better

Wrigley Upsets Plans of Gabby

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP)—In a determined effort to make a real championship team out of the Chicago Cubs, Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the team, revealed a six-point program for the rebuilding of his club.

The program is:

1-The contract to be offered Manager Gabby Hartnett will be for one year only.

2-Veteran players, rather than younger men, will be used as trading material but the "finger" has not been put on any player.

3-A system of cooperative ownership of minor league clubs is planned.

4-Tony Lazzeri to fortify the Cubs' weak supply of young talent.

5-Dizzy Dean remains a strong hope for 1933 although no special winter program except rest has been prescribed.

6-Although physical limitations prevent a wholesale shakeup, every possible effort to strengthen the club will be made.

GABBY EXPLAINS

Sitting shirt-sleeved at his desk, the young multi-millionaire smiled at the reaction to Hartnett's impetuous statement that "only four of the Cubs were sure of their jobs."

Hartnett had named them—Stanley Hack, Clay Bryant, Bill Lee and Dizzy Dean.

"Gabby dropped in today to explain that," Wrigley said, "He was worried over the stress the newspapers put on it. I told him I could understand how everybody might feel that was the thing that might be done."

"Wholesale shakeup is ridiculous, of course. There is no sense in trading players just to be trading or just because they have slipped a trifle from their peak for one season."

"That's why we're going to wait a few weeks before doing anything. I don't think we will have any difficulty getting together on terms for Hartnett. The contract, however, will be only for one year. None of ours are ever for any more."

BEST CLUB IN LEAGUE

"We've got the best club in the league and we have to do our trading in our league," Wrigley continued. "That means we will have to trade with inferior clubs, doesn't it? Besides, those recent newspaper stories have hurt us a lot. If the best club in the league can't use its players, how about the other clubs? It would be like holding a distress sale—and at a distress sale you

1000 Cadets To See Game In Stadium

The Cadets Corps will arrive at 8:35 from West Point, at the Huntington avenue yards, Boston, in three sections of a special train on Saturday for the Army-Harvard game in the Stadium.

Over 1000 Cadets will attend the game and, prior to the kickoff, will parade on the field. After the game the Cadets will be dismissed until assembly time at Huntington avenue yards at 12:00 midnight.

can only get 30 cents on a dollar.

"Of course, we will make whatever deals we can," said Hartnett, suggesting, "Personally, however, I have a feeling that I thought much about them."

"I'm like an old cat. I like the same clothes, same house, same team. I don't like to change."

Wrigley declared he was more interested in developing his own players than in buying other teams' stars.

LAZZERI QUESTION MARK

Wrigley said he believes a bigger problem than getting players was to keep those he has inspired.

"What I would like to buy or develop is a formula to keep a team inspired," he said. "If we had only played against the Yankees the way we played against Pittsburgh the week before, we might have made the series go a couple of games further anyway."

Regarding Lazzeri, whom Wrigley signed last year to add spirit to the team, he said:

"If he wants to be affiliated with the organization next year, I'd say he could, although in what capacity I do not know."

GOLF PRO UNDER KNIFE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12 (INS)—The condition of Frank Moore, Mamaroneck, N. Y., professional golfer, who underwent an operation at St. John's Hospital here, was reported good today. Moore was operated on for removal of a growth from the spine.

Born Lions, Green for Rose Bowl

By EDWARD W. COCHRANE

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (INS)—Every year about this time the grand old order of shillabers starts beating the drums around this town for some team they have hoped will be the guest of the Pacific Coast conference champion football team in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Earlier than usual the sound of the tomtoms is heard as they swing into line with two outstanding candidates—Columbia and Dartmouth.

There might be tendency to exploit Jim Crowley's Fordham Ram again. But you may recall what happened to the animal with the goatie and curled horns last campaign.

The drum thumpers had him almost entrained and on his way to the Bowl when the committee, that makes such selection, representing the University of California, decided that it wanted an eleven which it was pleased to state was on a par with the Bears academically.

LITTLE PAYS DIVIDEND

It may be that the word academically was used as a method of avoiding a very fine football eleven.

At least that seems to be the opinion of native New Yorkers, who are very fond of the Ram and his exploits.

It seems that there can be no excuse of an endemic nature offered for not choosing Dartmouth or Columbia.

And these is no denying their strength.

You will recall the criticism of the scribblers who literally ballyhooed Lou Little's Columbian right into the Rose Bowl not many years back. They were set down as a lot of asses who were doing their friend Little a favor and sending his boys out to the Coast to be slaughtered by a superior outfit.

They told how at least five teams of the East were better than Columbia. Then Little took his gang out to Pasadena and hurled all the criticism right back into the teeth of the critics by winning.

A grand triumph for the ballyhoo gang.

ANOTHER FINE TEAM

Now Mr. Little has another splendid team. He started right out by whaling Yale and the Army, which, you may be assured, is not an easy job.

This week Prof. Little is taking on another right smart job with Andy Kerr's Colgate.

After Colgate Mr. Little plans on taking on some tough ones.

As for Dartmouth—their really got something there. The Big Green team should have gone to Pasadena last New Year and should go now.

The Green has a veteran team, fine reinforcements from the freshmen of last autumn and power to spare.

It is going to be one of the big upset since Alonzo Stagg was a freshman if Dartmouth is whipped this year.

Conacher Purchase Hailed by Detroit

DETROIT, Oct. 12 (INS)—Motor City hockey fans today hailed the purchase of Charlie Conacher, veteran scoring star of the Toronto Leafs, as the beginning of a revival in Detroit Red Wing hockey fortunes.

Conacher was purchased for $14,000 in a straight cash deal. He probably will team with Marty Barry and Horie Lewis on the Wings' first line.

Trade Winds Blowing

McKechnie Wants Tony Cuccinello

By the Associated Press

There must be a million football pools on Broadway between 40th and 57th streets . . . New York U. scouts came back telling it that this Brunner of Tulane is better than Whizzer White . . . Off with that cap, kid.

Best baseball bet we know right now is that Babe Ruth will not be back coaching for the Dodgers. (It's a cinch he won't if Leo Durocher is the new manager) . . . Raife Guidali is recuperating from a minor operation in a Miami hospital and soon will be ready for the winter swing . . .

Baseball market preview: Both the Giants and Cubs want Johnny Mize of the Cards and are ready to cough up plenty of the old mazzuma . . . (They say the Giants have offered Hank Luber and $100,000 in cold cash) . . .

The Reds appear to be about as well fixed as any outfit in the league, but they'd like to have Tony Cuccinello of the Bees at second base.

Pittsburgh wants Al Lopez of the same outfit and also must get a replacement for Guy Suhr at first base and some chucking.

Gabby Hartnett has said Bill Lee, Clay Bryant, Dizzy Dean and Stan Hack are the only Cubs certain to be assigned lockers at Wrigley field . . . Looks like a busy winter.

MUNGER POPULAR

Mrs. Helen Williams Moody's back ailment is more serious than anyone imagines, if you can believe dope from the Coast . . . George Munger has developed a football spirit at Penn they haven't had in years.

He says "coach" is too pompous and insists the players call him George. Incidentally, they have to be in tip-top shape to keep up with him in practice.

For a guy whose team had just won another World Series, El Barrow, general manager of the Yanks, was a and looking individual yesterday. Reason: He was in the throes of returning $170,000 collected for the not-yet-played fifth game of the World Series . . . Cousin Egbert hated to see that good dough leave the Yankee offices, but out he went.

A lot of the boys around town are wondering just how long Lou Little's small (numerically) squad of 35 at Columbia can stand the

Flowers for Grid Fans

DETROIT, Oct. 12 (INS)—Seven thousand chrysanthemums were dangled before the eyes of Detroit women today—to build up the gate for Sunday's Washington Redskins-Detroit Lion pro football game.

The first 7000 women who go through the gates will be given a chrysanthemum brought here by a plane from the West Coast.

gaff. Mike Jacobs took his attorney with him to the Pacific Coast so he must mean business. Mike was due in Sacramento last night and a spring bout between Max Baer and Lou Nova is sticking out like a sore arm.

So college football isn't a business, eh? Well, no less than three high-powered out-of-town press agents were quartered in town last night.

They were Bob Woodward of Purdue, Bob Madry of North Carolina and the good old reliable Dexter Teed from Colgate.

Respectively, they were looking Fordham vs. Purdue, North Carolina vs. New York U.

and Colgate vs. Columbia . . . Dr. Madry had 2000 words prepared on "Sweet" Laine, the North Carolina back, but we'll spare you those . . . his understudy is liable to steal the show, anyway.

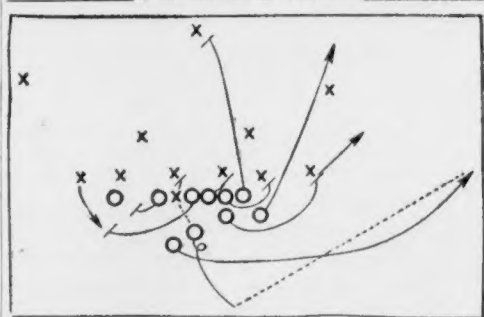

ALABAMA "HOT"

The reason Helen Jacobs, the tennis star, is so anxious to lease a house in Virginia is that she wants to do research work for her next novel, which will be woven around the Civil War . . . In direct contrast to the Pat-Fordham scoreless ties of the last three years, we give you Army and Columbia—13 touchdowns in the same period . . . Fred Apostoli is due tomorrow to begin training for Young Corbett in the Garden, November 18.

From all we can hear, Alabama has one whale of a football team down there . . . In two more years the Yanks will have a new pitching star in a guy named Didali, who (chucked for Wenatchee, Wash., out on the Coast this year . . .

CARNEGIE TECH SCORING PASS

Ball goes to fullback, who spins and fakes giving ball to left halfback. Fullback continues his spin and drops back. Wing back goes down to pull defensive left halfback with him. Quarterback blocks the end momentarily and then goes on ahead to help screen for left halfback when he receives the ball on a forward pass from the fullback.
